It is amazing just how many contacts your department generates in a day, and many of these encounters do not rise to the level of needing a full incident report to be on file. Get a handle on all the information those contacts generate and have it readily accessible with just a few clicks of the mouse. Field Contact tracks every one of those contacts and lets you record, store, count and later recall information about them. Those contacts can include but are not limited to:

Adult Arrests
Civil Citations
DUI Roadblocks
Interviews
Paper Service
Repair Orders
Unknowns

Alcohol Citations
Criminal Citations
Field Interviews
Juvenile Citations
Parking Tickets
Tobacco Citations
Warnings

Body Attachments
Complainants
Gang Members
Other Contacts
Registered Offenders
Traffic Citations
Witnesses

Field Contact tracks all of these contacts, and, if you don't see a contact type you deal with listed, then create your own contact type and start recording and storing information about it.

The information in Field Contact is centered on the contact itself so you have a record of all the attached information at that particular place and time. That information can include information about a person, a vehicle, identification, photographs and images, tracking numbers, fingerprints etc... You enter in as much data as you can, but no field is required other than a contact type.
